THAT PRIMARY ELECTION, ETC.

The action of the Democratic County Committee in calling a primary a month ago has caused more or less discussion among the members of the party in regard to the action of the committee. Some contend that the action of the committee was ill-timed, unwise and out of place. Such talk as this, if it does anything, indicates that the party managers, had they not made a call, had become alarmed, and were then in a panic. There was, in fact, not the slightest alarm. Chairman Sowers was only following in the steps of his predecessors when he issued the call. Suppose no action had been taken in the premises, and after the committee had come together and looked over the ground, they had then adjourned without a vote? Then what would have been the cry? Most sensibly our antagonists would have at once said that the Democracy was all broken up; that she was afraid to speak out.

Reviewing the situation in the light of all the circumstances, we plainly claim that the committee did the right and wise thing. The party is a well-organized, well-arranged political organization with a broad history. It has been in existence for fifty years, and claims the right to follow in the line of its established traditions. It will not suffer division from indiscriminate sources. It is governed by long established rules, and they must be obeyed with the strictest adherence. There was no reason, therefore, that the primary election should have been postponed. The Democracy doesn't propose to step down and out, and surrender the field to a third party, or to any party for that matter. She is emphatically here to stay, and those who don't like her manner of doing business on the platform will be welcome to her. The time had arrived, according to all precedents, the manner of choosing a candidate for the Legislature must be announced. There are two or more candidates in the field submitting their claims, and it does seem that for the committee to have ignored these things and awaited the action of some other organization, would have been absolutely foolish. In the name of high heaven, what do you take us for?

If the Farmers' Alliance, the Wheelers, Grangers, Republicans, or any other body want to put up a candidate for the Legislature in this county, certainly they have to do so, and if they do, go it larger. The Farmers' Alliance is a "big halibut and a fair count." As to certain parties who claim to be Democrats, but say they will not support the nominee of the party, we ask of you, why not? What have you in the secret caucuses of the Farmers' Alliance that others more than your own party? Read its platform, and you will see. It is guaranteed to all men of whatever race or color equal and exact justice before the law. Moreover it is pledged to purity the administration from corruption, to restore economy and to reduce taxation to its lowest limit. Again, a tariff for revenue only, or a sufficient revenue to pay all expenses of the Government, economically administered. And further, honest money as a basis for a circulating medium worth one hundred cents to the dollar.

These are some of the salient principles of Democracy, and what better can you find elsewhere? This is the question. And if nothing better, why do you desert her? The Farmers' Alliance, for we take it that the ends sought to be accomplished are the same as those of the Democracy. If it be true, why abandoned the party that you have struggled with for the past thirty years to accomplish these things? The end, if we will but stand together, is undeniably in sight. The end is to be reached through the Democratic party quicker than through any other channel. We appeal to all Democrats, therefore, to stand by their colors.

New City Hall.

EDITOR BRECKENRIDGE NEWS: Will you kindly give me in your valuable paper a statement that may be of great benefit to our city? The writer has for some time past observed the necessity for a large City Hall—one of such dimensions and capacity as will accommodate all classes of public gatherings, such as political, theatrical, scientific, musical, dramatic, etc., and may be used for feasts, banquets, balls, parties, skating rink and such.

The writer proposes that the building should be 50 by 150 feet, and should be located on the principal street or thoroughfare of the city, shall be strong and compactly built, having a balcony in front, and costing $10,000.

A REMARKABLE POEM.

The following poem of three stanzas of four lines each has often been alluded to as one of the most unique of literary efforts. It is a poem in which every letter in the alphabet except the letter "e," which all printers will tell you is one of the most indispensable of the letters, is a part of the poem. It reads: "A" is relative to 3; "B" is 17 and 14. The one coming next to "e" in number of times of use is "a," which is used 80 times while the letter in question is but used 139 times.

The poem which has caused the above discussion is entitled

"FATE OF NASSAU."

A happy morn great to see;
Quaint jolly rocks are gay,
Dell the water, far away.

No work of man nor sport of child
Finds Nassau in that many wild;

Each day is a holiday in vale,
Five wights? Why didn't you quit that plain?

Yankee for Susan Nassau,
Knows Zilah that Susan falls;

But when you're gay, why joy
To query on thy Ark boy.

—St. Louis Republic.

Those who are not quite satisfied are the benefactors of the world," and to these we wish to give good advice. Use Old Saul's Cataract Cure, which troubled with influenza or catarrh.

For all the ailments of small children there is no better remedy than Dr. Bull's Syrup.

REMINISCENCES.

BY AN OLD-TIMER.

No. 11.

Our reminiscences, though covering a considerable length of time and touching upon the theme of more or less misery (less perhaps, than of mere misery), do not comprise fully by any means the various subjects that might be brought out, yet it may serve to refresh the memory somewhat in its retrospective view.

While the present time has been given to many of the men who have been upon the theater of action here, the ladies—the old women, as we are wont to call them—have been referred to occasionally, but not to the extent that should characterize any attempt, however feeble, to portray the times and adventures of a period around which memory clings with a tenacity that will not let go.

* * *

Of these dear old ladies, "mothers in fane," how shall we write and what names shall we mention, or rather, who can be omitted without doing violence to our feelings? It may not be safe with so many as many of these have passed away, to name them, but we may of course, until they proved a benefaction, and from which were drawn inspirations to guide, to bless, to point with unerring certainty to some event in the history of our lives when these lessons should loom up in our memory, to subdue our evil propensities, and to make us better men and better women. They should have been but for having imbibed such precepts and such examples?

* * *

In the State of Virginia, in a lonely graveyard in the country, lie the remains of the sainted mother of the nation, Mrs. Washington, the old place, keeping vigil, as were over that grave, are two of his sisters, both now very old, and lovingly do they remember their brother here, the three constituting the one-half of six little children left to a widowed mother to care for.

* * *

For many years now are some whose mothers are buried here, and these grown up children avail themselves of every favorable opportunity to make a pilgrimage to the shrine of their affection—to the grave of a devoted mother. Others whose parents are old and infirm, filled with emotions of filial love, which must ever find a lodgment in the heart, show on every suitable occasion how deeply rooted those feelings are.

* * *

Bties of consanguinity are not all that bind. In some of the milk of human kindness extends to all, and not to us only. Such is the case of Mrs. Ogden, who died several years since, whose kindness and generosity fed the hungry, relieved the wants of many, even ministering to the suffering; she was not less social and friendly in all the relations of life.

* * *

The life of Mrs. Esther A. Allen, re-married by man, was a shining example of devotion to children, a warm heart for all relatives and kindness of disposition generally, especially solicitous for the welfare of her son, John W. Allen, whose widow and children reside at Hawesville. Mrs. Allen long since led the way to that beyond, followed by son and a loving daughter.

* * *

Mrs. George LaHeis, in whose family the writer was for some time treated almost as one of the household, was formerly Miss Harriet Blincoe, and enjoyed the confidence and high regard of all. She was a good neighbor and an excellent woman, and her spirit, with her have passed away her husband, two daughters and two sons, the whole of a once happily constituted family.

* * *

Mrs. Barnet Lillard was a lady of very pronounced traits of character, a good worker in any cause she espoused, and lived to a good age.

* * *

Mrs. Col. Murray, who survived her husband a few years, was a remarkable lady in many respects, always took an active part in church matters, and ministers always found a good home at her house. She raised a large family of boys, and all attained prominence in affairs of State, or war, or of finance.

* * *

Mrs. Elizabeth Sebastian, whose husband, Dr. Charles Sebastian, died while on a visit to Long Lick soon after the writer came to Kentucky, was the mother of a large family of children, of whom Mrs. Mary Raitt, Mrs. Elizabeth Hines, Mrs. M. R. Fisher, George C. and "Tip" Sebastian are now living. Mrs. Sebastian was the last of the large family of brothers and sisters of whom who did not know "Aunt Betsy," so kind and considerate to all, evincing so much interest in every handable undertaking? Expressing herself freely upon all occasions, without giving offense to any, comforted and cared for in her declining years by a loving daughter and grandchild, she died peacefully away and will long be remembered.

The poem which has caused the above discussion is entitled

—St. Louis Republic.

Others who performed well their part and have gone to their reward, may be mentioned. Mrs. Wright, the mother of Mrs. Goff, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Overton, Mrs. Margaret Scott.

* * *

Of those yet living are Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Delta Fisher, Mrs. Geo. H. Gregory, Mrs. Skillman, the mother of A. B. and Jas. T. Skillman, Mrs. McCrae, Mrs. P. V. Duncan, and Mrs. Jimmie C. Clegg, Mrs. Clegg.

J. D. Babbage, the enterprising merchant and publisher of the Bucks County News, the best weekly in the country. It may be said, however, that Mrs. B. is quite young for her years, and enjoys, to an unusual degree, visiting among her children, relatives and friends. Indeed, it is not intended to claim all as being very old.

* * *

Many well remembered names of old ladies all over the country occur to the writer, from whom he has been the recipient of much kindness, and who were conspicuous for filling full the ranks of our patriotic associations, but in their "old and infirm" state, but among them Mrs. Capt. Jack Webb, Mrs. Capt. Joe Roberts, Mrs. Jesse Morris, Mrs. T. G. Owen, Mrs. Summer Dean, Mrs. Winston Lowry, Mrs. Richard Carter, Mrs. Miller and a host of others, would still leave many kindly unnoticed, but not forgotten, and omitted by name for want of space alone.
